

MEDIA SYSTEM IN RUSSIA

The introductory course provides students with an overview of a media system in modern Russia and contains concepts of main specific features of national models of media systems, of factor that affect their formation, basic principles of their contraction, governance, organization and self-organization, as well as structuring, functioning, development and interaction of key segments of the main media systems.

The total workload of the discipline is 4 credits (144 academic hours).

№	Discipline Section	Forms of Current Control and Intermediate Assessment
1	Key definitions. The structure of a media system
2	Factors of development and functioning of media systems
3	National media systems: typologies and indicators	Test
4	The system of news / journalistic content production, aggregation and distribution in Russia	Test
5	The system of cultural, educational and entertainment content production, aggregation and distribution in Russia	Test. Project
		Exam